

BROOKLYN POLICE SEEK THREE GIRLS.

All Disappeared Within One Week and Reasons for Their Absence Are Not Known—Their Descriptions.

Brooklyn policemen have been asked to look for three young girls, all of whom disappeared from their homes without apparent reason within one week.

Maud Louise Tinker, seventeen years old, of No. 344-1-2 Brooklyn place, went out for a walk on the morning of June 14 and has not returned. She weighs 120 pounds, is dark, has a full, round face and wears a white dotted suit, with a sailor collar.

Madeline McDermott, sixteen years old, left her home, No. 301 Fifth avenue, to take a walk at 1:30 o'clock on the afternoon of June 15 and has not returned. She is 5 feet 4 inches in height, weighs 105 pounds, has light hair and blue eyes and wears a dark skirt and a white waist.

Caroline Wright, fifteen years old, of No. 1463 Pacific street, left the Brooklyn Training School a week ago. She is 5 feet high, weighs 110 pounds and has dark eyes and hair. She wore a blue and white gingham skirt.

MADE BOY CARRY UP ICE.

Father Is Fined for Overworking Thirteen-Year-Old Child.

Ellas Gether, of No. 146 Suffolk street, was fined $50 in the Court of Special Sessions by Justice McKean this morning on a charge of overworking his thirteen-year-old son Max.

Agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children arrested Gether, who peddles ice from a push-cart, for making Max carry fifty-pound pieces to the fifth floor of tenement-houses. The agents considered the work too heavy for the boy, who seems weak, and the boy was a witness against his father.

"He has made me carry much more than that," he said in court. "We start to deliver ice at 5 o'clock in the morning and never get through until dark. Father watches the cart while I carry the ice upstairs."

HER FATHER FEARS "BEDFORD GANG."

"I Don't Want Another Florence Burns in My Family," Says She, Accused by Daughter of Striking Her.

The "Bedford avenue gang," which figured so prominently in the Florence Burns case, was mentioned again today in Lee avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, when Sylvester Shea, of No. 1,229 Prospect place, was arraigned on complaint of his fifteen-year-old daughter Mary, who charged him with assault.

She said that he had struck her and knocked her down, and that her head struck a mantle and was badly out. The girl had her head done up in bandages. "I was attempting to chastise my daughter," explained Shea. "For her misconduct. I have been unable to control her lately. She associates with young men who were companions of Walter Brooks in the 'Bedford avenue gang,' and I don't want another Florence Burns in my family."

The girl was induced to withdraw the charge against her father, and was then committed to the Convent of mercy until she shall have reached the age of sixteen.

"GAMBLERS HOUND ME," SAYS REYNOLDS

Brooklyn Police Captain Says Every Move He or His Son Makes Is Twisted by Devery's Friends.

"I have been hounded by the Devery system because I have hounded the Brooklyn gamblers," said Capt. Reynolds, Chief of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau, when asked to-day if his son, Policeman James Reynolds, had obtained a leave of absence to do work for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. The detective chief flew into a rage when the matter was mentioned.

"Every move my son or I make is twisted into a wrong construction," he said. "The gamblers and their police friends annoy my boy to get even with me. I've pounded the gamblers and I'll keep on pounding them. My son has obtained a leave of absence and is doing a little detective work for the railroad, with whom he was employed before he became a policeman."

It is said that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company asked Commissioner Partridge to give young Reynolds a leave of absence, but they were refused. The young man then asked for ninety days without pay in order to obtain medical treatment. This application was granted.

FREAKIE HAS INFLUENZA.

Crack English Polo Player Will Not Play in Next Game.

LONDON, June 19.—Frederick Freakie, the polo player, who played on the English team in the second contest for the International Cup at Hurlingham, June 9, when the American team, under Foxhall Keene, was defeated, is suffering from a severe attack of influenza and will not be able to play in the next international game.

KITTY RAMPONE AGAIN SINGS IN PUBLIC SQUARE.

Greenwich Village is happy to-day, because its uncrowned queen, little Kitty Rampone, came back and sang last evening at the band concert in Abington Square. Seven years ago the dead bandmaster's daughter stood on the leader's stand beside her father and sang her way into the hearts of the people with her sweet, high soprano voice. She became a popular idol, and on band concert nights Abington Square was thronged by thousands who came to hear little Kitty sing. She sang the songs of the people, and they helped her out with the choruses, and lavished applause on her that would have made a diva envious.

CIGAR SMOKE MADE ROW IN A CAR.

Baker in Front Seat Resented Remarks of Cartoonist's Wife About the Odor and Was Arrested.

Michael Ossman, baker, of No. 943 Columbus avenue, who carried a lighted cigar into one of the forward seats of a Third Avenue car yesterday was fined $5 in Police Court to-day.

Max Bachman, cartoonist, and his wife were on the car.

"Phew!" said Mrs. Bachman. "They must be using soft coal around here."

"No," replied her husband, "the man next you is smoking."

Ossman made a tart response and was told that he had no right to be smoking in the forward part of the car.

He replied, according to Mrs. Bachman's story, that if she did not like it she could go elsewhere.

Angry words were exchanged and then, according to Mrs. Bachman, Ossman pushed her from her seat and used improper language.

At Twelfth street Policeman Clark arrested Ossman.

"Walter, the Bike Cop," lost his job on the police force this morning by order of Police Commissioner Partridge.

Inspector Kane and Detective Keough testified that Walter, whose last name is Leasenbee, was attached to the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station as a bicycle policeman six weeks ago when he was called upon to assist Keough in arresting two women who were charged with robbing a man in a "panel-house." On the way to the West Thirtieth street station the woman said that a man named "Bill" Murray had stolen property.

A few minutes later a man dressed as a bicycle policeman called at Murray's boarding-house and said to the landlady, "Tell 'Bill' that 'Walter, the Bike Cop,' says the police are after him."

Leasenbee was identified as "Walter, the Bike Cop," and was suspended until his trial. At his trial he was represented by counsel, but offered no defense.

HAS HAD HICCUGHS 3 YEARS

Woman Suffers Twenty Times a Minute—Little Hope for Her.

Sara Blockson, a Russian, twenty-six years old, unmarried and living at No. 78 Reade street, walked into Bellevue Hospital this morning and asked to be treated for hiccoughs, from which she suffers almost continually.

Every three seconds, or twenty times a minute, the woman's breath stops short and the little gasp follows. She told the doctors that she had suffered from the affliction for three years. Miss Blockson was sent from Bellevue to the Metropolitan Hospital, where an effort will be made to aid her, but it is said at Bellevue that she has a slight chance of recovery.

FAINTS WHILE HE LEADS ORCHESTRA.

Conductor at Hammerstein's Paradise Gardens Falls While Directing Countess Hatzfeld's Ping-Pong Song.

There was a leaderless orchestra part of the evening at Hammerstein's Paradise Gardens last night. It was due to the fact that Rene Stretti, the leader, suddenly fainted while leading his men and had to be carried back of the scenes.

The orchestra was playing a ping pong song which the Countess von Hatzfeld was singing, when suddenly Stretti dropped his baton and fell back.

He landed on several of the musicians, who laid down their instruments and carried the leader below the stage. The rest of the orchestra, however, kept on playing and the Countess went on with her song as though nothing had happened.

There was some excitement among the women in the audience who had seen the leader fall, but the coolness of the other musicians and the people on the stage prevented any approach to a panic.

A physician was summoned, who revived Stretti, and he was taken home in a cab.

CAPT. O'REILLY SANG SOME SONGS

New Oak Street Commander Makes a Hit with the Boys' Club of St. James's Church.

Capt. Miles O'Reilly, of the Oak street station, was the guest of honor at the Water street club-house of the boys of St. James's Church last night.

He sang songs for the boys, played about keeping off the streets at night and won their hearts by treating them liberally to ice cream and cake.

Capt. Vredenburg and Father Curry, of St. James's, were at loggerheads over this and the way the police treated its members.

All the priests of the parish were present last night and joined the boys in thanking Capt. O'Reilly for his talk and his offer of help.

"That is the difference in methods," said one. "Every man, woman and child in the parish is now Capt. O'Reilly's warm friend."

GAVE SULLIVAN'S NAME.

Gussie Ryan Wanted to Telegraph Him When Arrested.

When Gussie Ryan, well dressed and with plenty of money, was arrested for intoxication in Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, last night she made a vigorous protest. She insisted that the police should send a telegram to Senator "Tim" Sullivan at Hot Springs, Ark., and telephone to Senator "Tom" Grady, in Myrtle Avenue Court this morning she was repentant and sentence was suspended. She refused to tell where she lived.
